20 THINGS TO DO IN LINE AT DISNEYLAND

I'm Kristie,
a Disney-loving mama of 3 who helps families plan magical, meltdown-free trips. I made this guide because, let's be honest, waiting in line can be rough.

Even as a grown-up, I find it hard to stand still when I'm excited... and after hours of rides, snacks, and stimulation, my kids hit their limit fast (especially my son).

And I'm so glad you grabbed this freebie.
Because even with the best plans, there's always something to wait for, and I believe those "in-between" moments can be part of the magic too. 🌟

This guide is full of screen-free (and low-screen) ideas to keep your family entertained, in ride lines, restaurants, or even on the plane.

I hope it brings calm, connection, and a little bit of fun to those moments that used to feel frustrating.

LINE GAMES FOR ALL AGES

1. Disney Alphabet Game

Go around naming characters from A-Z. Can't think of one for "X"? Cheat sheet on the next page!

2. Hidden Mickey Hunt

Search for Mickey heads in signs, buildings, shadows, clothes... they're everywhere!

3. Would You Rather: Disney Style

Would you rather eat 3 churros in a row or ride Space Mountain 5x back to back?

4. Disneyland Bingo

Print your cards (included!) and check off balloons, popcorn carts, churros, characters + more.

5. Scavenger Hunt

Find: matching shirts, lost balloon, Mickey pretzel, stroller pile, bubble wand...

6. 20 Questions – Disney Edition

Think of a character, others ask yes/no Q's to guess. "Are they human? Do they sing?"

7. Ride Sound Challenge

Make ride noises (zooming, beeping, screaming). Can anyone guess the attraction?

8. Character Charades

Act like a Disney character — no words allowed. Can they guess it?

9. Color Spotter

Pick a color (like yellow) and race to find 5 things in that shade around you.

10. Spot the Snack

Look around and silently choose a snack someone's eating. Others guess what it is

I hope these ideas help save your sanity at some point during your trip ❤️

If you've already booked and are starting to think about the day to day, I can help with that too.

One of the hardest things to hear is:

"We went to Disneyland... but we didn't get to do everything we wanted."

That's exactly why I created my Blueprint to Perfect Park Days.

It walks you through how I plan my own days so you can feel confident going in and actually enjoy it while you're there.

And if you want something fully personalized, I also offer VIP planning where I map out your entire day for you, including rides, meals, breaks, and pacing based on your family.

I'm so honored to be a small part of your Disneyland experience ❤️
With magic and strategy,

Kristie
